WHAT WE LEARNED

- The Theory of Change and how it helps to measure the impact of psycho-social support programmes
- Extending the entire Theory of Change concept to measure impact across all programmes
- Adventure sports generates empowering "narratives" for children and becomes a crucial and effective metaphor used during art-based therapeutic support

WHAT WE LEARNED

- Staff capacity built around data analysis and interpretation through SPSS

- Clarity in perspectives with regard to programme design, implementation and monitoring and evaluation

- Extension of this experience to other researches e.g. substance abuse among children, child protection systems within municipalities etc

THANK
